

間違い探し問題

1. Despite the sales department achieved its goal, the company fell into the red in the third quarter.
2. There were less attendees at the press conference of Mr. Hudson, the CEO who is retiring next week, than at the one held for the new CEO.
3. Because of the outstanding ability to chose successful products for importation, the vice president of Fancy Trading Co. recommended that Ms. Lee be promoted.
4. The president is proud of the interesting designed headquarters building.
5. Neither his explanation nor the many diagrams he showed was good enough to convince the customer to sign up.
6. Kenteru Electric was invited to exhibit its new products at the World Electric Fair, which will be hold next March.
7. Participants are supposed to be arrived at the hall at least three hours before the contest begins.
8. The reporters were disappointed by the company's announcement because it provided few news about the progress of the negotiations.
9. It is obvious that there are some serious defect in the new equipment.
10. The company's dress code requires that employees not wear jeans at work.
11. While his visit to the Textile Machine Exhibition in Paris, Mr. Hopkins met some prospective customers.
12. The politician was accused of improperly conduct after accepting an expensive gift from a wealth supporter.
13. Unless a further court order will be issued, the company will not be allowed to restart the factory's operation.
14. A mean of doing something is a method, instrument, or process which can be used to do it.
15. If you are standing in a relaxed or slightly bent position and then you straight, you make your back or body straight and upright.
16. Until the supervisor noticed the mistake, Mr. Berenger has been using the wrong formula to calculate the profits.
17. Commuters who normally take Sunshine Road have to use an alternate routes until the construction is over.
18. Br. Bronson, the vice president, was asked to make a five-minutes speech at the upcoming annual meeting.
19. Mr. Dole's suggestion about the sales campaign for the new products were rejected by his supervisor.

20. More informations about the negotiation will be released after the next meeting between the two parties, which will be held tomorrow morning.